Former Congressman (D-TX) and Former Chair of the Caucus

What To Expect From Politics This Year. Martin Frost analyzes the current political environment and the makeup of the Congress, handicaps the next House and Senate races around the country, and addresses trends that may impact the over-all change in seats for each party. He talks about key issues like tax reform, immigration, budgets, and more.

The Challenges of Achieving Bi-Partisanship In Congress. The public often complains about the lack of bipartisanship in Congress. Congressman Frost believes that it requires leadership from the top of both parties to make bipartisanship a reality and that the public must demand that Democratic and Republican Congressional leaders act in a more cooperative basis.

Congressional Redistricting – What To Expect When The Lines Are Drawn. Congressman Frost discusses redistricting and how the results impact Congressional elections, including forecasting projected gains and losses for each state and for each party. He will also discuss current efforts to reform the redistricting process by changing to a non-partisan or bi-partisan commission state by state.

Point/Counterpoint With Congressman Tom Davis. Frost and Congressman Tom Davis (R-VA) are one of the most popular political duos. Both have a history of running political committees and getting things done in the House. Together they tackle the politics du jour, highlighting key issues like tax reform, immigration, budgets, sequestration, and more. Both highly intelligence, their banter enlivens the debate and keeps audiences riveted.
